

Washington—The President returned from his two weeks "look-and-listen" dash across the continent with seven definite impressions.

1. That he has lost little if any political strength, and that his popularity still is at a high crest.
2. That the foes of his court bill, although under bitter fire from ardent New Deal elements, are far from on the ropes.
3. That the country generally is apathetic toward the judicial fight and is far more interested in immediate issues.
4. That west of Chicago there is no demand for the resignation of Justice Black because of his one-time membership in the Klan.
5. That farmers want a new Triple-A.
6. That there is no demand for a special session.
7. That there is intense interest in whether Roosevelt will run for a third term in 1940.

Still Riding High

Evidence of Roosevelt's popularity was so overwhelming that it surprised even the gentleman involved.

All along his route, whether morning, afternoon or night, at country crossroads or large cities, it was the same story—enthusiastic cheering crowds.

In a campaign year this is to be expected. People are "steamed up" and turn out to hail their champion. But in an off-election period, and especially after a lack licking at the hands of Congress, a sightseeing President is not a sure-fire thrill.

Roosevelt, however, left behind him an unmistakable trail of genuine enthusiasm.

Equally significant was the way the local politicians hovered about the President and fell over themselves trying to get alongside him when the cameras clicked. Politicians don't do that unless they know it pays dividends. They don't cluster around a loser.

Dead Fish

While it is quite possible for Roosevelt to revive the court furor by launching a new legislative attack, at the moment that issue is as dead as a kippered herring.

There is lively interest in how he feels about Senators who threw him for a loss. But on the issue itself, there is dull and definite apathy.

The anti-Roosevelt Senators unquestionably have lost some Democratic strength. But on the other hand, their court stand won heavy Republican approval. And under the election laws of their states, Republicans can go into Democratic primaries without losing their party votes in the final election.

So it is entirely possible that when the ants come up for re-election, this GOP backing may cancel out Democratic losses and the boys will emerge "vindicated" victors.

Black and Klan

Whatever may be Eastern sentiment over the Black-Klan expose and Black's reply, the West is not hot and bothered about it. The question was followed with interest but there is no manifest resentment either against Black or against Roosevelt for appointing him.

Whether this is due to the fact that in some Western States the Klan once had a big following, is anyone's guess. But it is a fact that there is no public clamor in the West for Black's ouster.

Special Session

The one subject Roosevelt discussed most during his trip was a special session of Congress. And practically everyone shook his head. They said there was strong demand for new farm legislation, but total indifference to hurry-up action.

Senators and congressmen were especially opposed to an early return to Capitol Hill. No real time would be saved, they argued, and they would be inconvenienced.

Roosevelt did not indicate whether he had definitely made up his mind or not, but he talked as if he were strongly inclined to recall Congress in November. His argument was that the main session would be shortened by a November beginning, thereby giving Congress a running start toward next year's electioneering. A special session, he predicted, would bring adjournment by May.

What will be his final decision depends largely on Chairman Marvin Jones of the House Agriculture Committee. The Texan privately assured the President a month ago that he would have a farm bill ready by November 10. If he makes good on this promise, the chances favor a special session.

Third Term

At Clinton, Iowa, first stop west of the Mississippi, an old farmer yelled out: "We're for you, Mr. President, and that goes for 1940 too!"

The crowd cheered. Roosevelt

SCOUT CAMPAIGN WORKERS GATHER TO PLAN DRIVE

Literature and Cards Are Given Solicitors For Canvass

Youth and its interest occupied the spotlight of attention and activity today in Dixon.

About 75 workers gathered at breakfast at the Hotel Nachusa this morning where they received cards and informative literature to take with them in the respective territories to be solicited for funds to carry on Boy and Girl Scout work.

W. H. McMasters, chairman of the executive committee for the joint drive, paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of John Gould Ralston, recently deceased, whose last civic activity was at a meeting preparing an outline for today's drive.

He pointed out the vision and unselfishness of Mr. Ralston. That despite the knowledge of worldly security of his own home and family, he realized no home or family was secure with an unhappy and discontented youth so he gave of his time and shared his worldly security to further the functioning of these agencies that increased numbers of children might enjoy the healthy and happy influence inculcated through activities in such organizations as Boy and Girl Scouts.

Mayor Speaks

Mayor William Slothower gave a very informative short talk, urging the solicitors not to solicit donations but to urge subscriptions as a good investment. Continuing, he pointed out from official records that the problem was no longer juvenile delinquency but was rapidly becoming juvenile crime.

Economic conditions may be the cause, he said, of some of the left-down in the home. In many homes right here in Dixon both father and mother are in the business world and the children are permitted to run the streets and frequently become community problems. The agencies that can occupy the free time of such children are serving an urgent civic need and helping to build desirable citizens for tomorrow, concluded the mayor.

Girl Scouts Pleased

A. A. Stocker, Boy Scout executive, thanked the Dixon Telegraph, its editor and his staff for the generous co-operation given in publicity for this drive.

Mrs. August Wimpelberg, commissioner of Girl Scout Council was introduced and said Girl Scouting was particularly happy to participate in the drive today because they had the added incentive of sharing jointly in the proceeds.

With a few detailed instructions to the workers from Mr. Stocker, the meeting adjourned and seventy-five persons journeyed into the morning's sunshine determined to make friends for Scouting as well as "bring in the bacon" in what is hoped will be "a half days' drive."

CRAMER URGES PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FIRE

Simple methods by which danger of fire can be eliminated in many places were listed today by Fire Chief Sam Cramer, as he urged extreme carelessness not only during the fire prevention week, but throughout the entire year.

He suggests that paper and rubbish should be taken from basements and attics; the inspection of heating systems, as well as electric wiring in homes and places of business. Extreme care should be used at all times in building fires and smokers should exercise care in disposing of matches, cigar and cigarette stubs.

Members of the Dixon fire department are always willing to assist in inspecting business houses, homes or public buildings in order to determine safety, Chief Cramer stated.

"After a fire has started it is certain that there will be some loss," said Chief Cramer. "We put out fires as quickly as possible and with as small loss as possible, but I feel that if we can be of service in pointing out a hazard and thus prevent a fire, we are really doing a better job for the community and the citizens."

Peoria Votes To Improve Airport

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—In a special election conducted by the park board, Peoria voters yesterday approved a tax levy to improve the municipal airport to meet standards of the U. S. Bureau of air commerce.

Ballots were cast by 11,782 and the levy was supported 7,450 to 4,332.

Some time ago Peoria air service was discontinued when it was found the airport was inadequate to meet the requirements of large planes.

American Airlines announced it would resume service to and from the city as soon as the improvement program was completed.

Wild Animals

Shelbyville, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—They invited the wolf back to the door in Shelby county today—and waited just inside with a shotgun. John Dilley was the cause. He pocketed $50 bounty on eight wolf cubs at $5 each and $10 on adult wolf under an old law.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 6—(AP)—It cost Robert E. Long $744 to work for Uncle Sam last month.

A government hunter, he brought in a dozen bobcats and the ears of eleven coyotes to pay a private hunter $854. But his salary is only $110 a month.

FOREIGN POLICY SPEECH EXCITES VARIED COMMENT

Nations Express Their Opinions On Latest Roosevelt Stand

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A world fearful of widespread war looked today upon President Roosevelt's intimation that the United States is prepared to take active steps for peace both as a menace and a benefaction.

The German foreign office warned the president to remember the "shipwreck" of President Wilson when he sought to safeguard peace for all time through the League of Nations. Japan warned officially that peace may be "difficult to maintain" if demands of the nations which "have not" colonies and raw materials are ignored.

The two capitals, Madrid and Nanking, that are fighting enemies on opposite sides of the world viewed the president's words as threats to their foes.

The socialist newspapers of Valencia, seat of the Spanish government, rang with praise for "this mighty opinion" and rejoiced at the weight they expected it would carry in Geneva.

Roosevelt's entire speech was spread on the front pages of Madrid newspapers without comment but with the headlines, "Americans want peace; Roosevelt energetically condemns policy of invasion and Fascist blackmail." "Roosevelt accuses provocative nations."

In Nanking, a spokesman for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government declared the speech was "gratifying to China as evidence that America is emerging from isolationism and neutrality."

"Especially welcome," he said, "is Mr. Roosevelt's implied condemnation of Japan when he said without warning or justification civilians are being ruthlessly murdered."

"We understand why the United States desires to avoid this (Sino-Japanese) war but isolationism is not the way. China agrees with the president's statement that peace-loving nations must strive in concert to halt treaty violators. "But this must be done before it is too late. China hopes American public opinion soon will crystallize in some definite form, such as the enforcement of sanctions."

British Reaction

Great Britain, taking the president's words as an offer of cooperation in the Far East, sought a formula to give force to his idea of "quarantine" the "contagions" of war.

The cabinet, believing it had at least moral support of the United States, weighed emergency measures to stifle threats to peace in the Orient and in Europe where

MUSSOLINI HAS ONLY 24 HOURS TO ANSWER NOTE

British Encouraged To Action By U. S. New Stand

By The Associated Press

London, Oct. 6—The British government today granted Premier Mussolini only 24 hours more for reply to a Franco-British invitation to tri-power talks on the grave Spanish situation.

With two wars threatening world peace, informed sources said the cabinet had agreed to wait no longer in the face of what it considers sure evidence Di Duce has sent more planes, as well as his son, to aid insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco in defiance of non-intervention pledges.

A new factor in the troubled situation, these sources declared, was the "legitimate" assumption President Roosevelt's Chicago speech aroused for Geneva to expect American collaboration.

STOPS PARADES

Madrid, Oct. 6—(AP)—The Spanish government issued a strict decree today stripping the army of all political authority, silencing high army officers and stopping all military parades and ceremonies.

Fighting was the only function left to the army under the decree, which relegated army officers to positions of anonymity.

The order, signed by Indalecio Prieto, minister of national defense, specifically forbade all army officers in command of troops from taking part in any public meeting of political significance.

Officers likewise were forbidden from making any statement to the press or any radio broadcast.

The decree, described in the official announcement from Valencia as designed to unify the centralized government control of the Spanish army, also prohibited any military parade or review without specific approval of the defense ministry.

The defense ministry hereafter must approve any acts or ceremonies in which army units participate.

FORTIFY POSITIONS

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 6—(AP)—Austrian troops maneuvered into stronger positions today to protect Gijon while their outposts sniped at the slowly advancing Spanish insurgent foe.

A Spanish government communiqué said defense militia occupied peaks dominating a road to Cangas de Onis, enabling them to shield the town and Sella river fortifications which were the immediate objective of the insurgents on the eastern front, about 30 air miles from Gijon.

The communiqué said the Asturians repulsed two attacks yesterday below the village of Luguer, inflicting heavy losses on the insurgents.

Insurgent advisers asserted, however, that the insurgent armies both east of Gijon and about 30 air miles south of the Biscayan seaport had renewed their drive against the last government territory in the Spanish northwest after a lull in harassing raids.

Under the guerrilla attacks of Asturian marksmen, the eastern insurgent column, commanded by Gen. Fidel Davila, occupied the villages of Orco and Llerica and other positions about Covadonga, it was said, while the southern columns headed by Gen. Miguel Arana were steered into new action on the Leon province front.

Yankees' Powerhouse in One Big Inning in First Of Series Routs Hubbell

"Square Pants" Gets Punishment After Fine Beginning

BULLETIN

The New York Yankees won the first game of the World Series today, 8 to 1.

Yankee Stadium, New York City, Oct. 6—After retiring fourteen of the first sixteen men to face him in today's opening game of the 1937 world series, Carl Hubbell, the Giants' great southpaw paved the way for his own undoing in the sixth inning, when he walked "Lefty" Gomez, the Yankees' pitcher. Before the inning was over Hubbell was sent to the showers, and two other Giant pitchers, Gumbert and Coffman, had received cruel punishment. At the end of the first half of the eighth inning the Yankees held a 7 to 1 lead. Story of the game:

FIRST INNING

Giants: Moore grounded out to Gehrig unassisted. Bartlett singled on a sharp bouncer just inside the third baseline. Ott lifted a high fly to Gehrig. Leiber fanned, swinging at a fast ball with the count two and two. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees: Crosetti walked, the fourth ball being pitched. Hubbell was working very deliberately and making frequent use of the resin bag. Rolfe fanned, swinging at a screwball. DiMaggio singled past Ott. Crosetti stopped at second. Gehrig lifted a high fly to Leiber in short right field. The base runners did not try to advance after the catch. Dickey drove a nice running catch. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

SECOND INNING

Giants: Rolfe broke his bat on a foul and went back to the bench to get another one. He then flied to Hoag. McCarthy lined to Lazzari. Hoag took the ball off his shoetops. Mancuso lined to Selkirk. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Hoag grounded out, Bartlett to McCarthy. Selkirk bounced out. Whitehead to McCarthy, as he hit the first pitch. Hubbell made a nice glove-hand catch of Lazzari's. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Giants: Crosetti made a neat stop of Whitehead's bouncer behind second base and threw him out. Hubbell lashed a long drive that Selkirk caught on the bank a few feet in front of the stands. Moore was thrown out, Gomez to Gehrig. The pitcher made a nice stop of a hard hit grounder.

Gomez grounded out on the first pitch. Whitehead to McCarthy. Crosetti hit a long foul that looked like a baseball for a moment. Crosetti flied to Moore with the count three and two. Rolfe hoisted a short fly to Moore. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FOURTH INNING

Giants: Bartlett flied deep to Hoag on the first pitch. Ott was thrown out on a pretty play, Lazzari to Gehrig. Tony grabbed a tricky hopper on the run behind second base. Leiber popped to Lazzari who backed up on the grass for the catch. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: DiMaggio rolled out. Whitehead to McCarthy. Gehrig fanned, swinging while the crowd roared. Dickey grounded out, McCarthy unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Ripple flied into right field. McCarthy singled past Lazzari, sending Ripple to third. Tony got his glove on the ball but couldn't hold it. Mancuso hit into a double play. Crosetti to Lazzari to Gehrig. While Ripple crossed the plate with the first run of the game. Whitehead lashed a double down the right field line. Hubbell grounded out to Gehrig. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

One run, three hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees: Hoag lifted a high fly to Bartlett on the first pitch. Selkirk hoisted a high fly to Lazzari. Lazzari went down swinging as Hubbell retired the Yankees in order for the fourth straight inning. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING

Giants: Moore dribbled a single through the middle of the diamond. Bartlett flied to Selkirk. Ott flied to Dickey who made the catch in front of the Giants' dugout. Leiber flied deep to Hoag. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees: Gomez walked, with the count three and two. Crosetti singled sharply to left. Gomez stopping at second. It was the first hit off Hubbell since the first inning. With Rolfe up, Mancuso threw to Bartlett and Gomez was trapped off second. The Giant shortstop dropped the ball, however, and was charged with an error as Gomez scrambled back to safety. Rolfe dropped a single in short left with the count three and two, filling the bases. DiMaggio cracked the first pitch to left center for a single, scoring Gomez and Crosetti. Rolfe ran to third and DiMaggio reached second on the throw. Bartlett cut off Leiber's throw after the centerfielder had juggled the ball and just failed to catch DiMaggio at second. Gehrig was intentionally passed to fill the bases again. Whitehead flied to Selkirk. Selkirk grounded out. It went for a single scoring Rolfe and leaving the bases filled. Hoag grounded out to Ott and DiMaggio was forced at the plate, Ott to Mancuso.

SEVENTH INNING

Giants: Ripple flied to Hoag in short left. McCarthy coiled out. Gomez flied to Selkirk. Selkirk hoisted to DiMaggio in short center. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Rolfe walked, with the count three and two, the fourth ball being wide. Dickey walked on four straight pitches and the Giants' bullpen went into action again. Rolfe attempted sacrifice but rolled over the third base chalk line. Mancuso attempted to pick Gehrig off second but Bartlett was knocked off his feet and dropped the ball as Gehrig collided with him. Hoag again fouled in an attempt to sacrifice. Hoag hit into a double play, Ott to Whitehead to McCarthy, as Gehrig reached third. Selkirk grounded out, Bartlett to McCarthy. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankee Stadium, New York City, Oct. 6—(AP)—

At Smith, a southpaw, went to the box. He was the fourth pitcher for the Giants. Lazzari hit a home run into the lower left field stands. Ripple made a one-hand stab of Gomez' line drive, misjudging the ball. Crosetti lined to Ott on the first pitch. Rolfe hoisted to Moore. One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

DEMAND WAGNER ACT PROTECT CRAFT UNIONS

Denver, Oct. 6—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention applauded today when Joseph Padway of Milwaukee suggested repeal of the Wagner labor disputes act unless craft unions were protected by it.

Padway, a labor lawyer, told the convention the A. F. of L. should fight for two amendments to the Wagner act at the next session of congress:

- (1) To remove the labor relations board's power to recognize an "independent" labor union as a proper collective bargaining agency.
- (2) To compel the board to hold employee elections by craft in plants or industries employing more than one craft.

Just after Padway spoke, Arthur J. Altmeier, chairman of the social security board, told the convention there was "no question" but that the social security program would be improved and broadened.

Exclusion of farm labor, domestic help, seamen and others from the old age insurance program, Altmeier said, was due to "practical administrative difficulties involved."

The board definitely believed, he added, that these classes of labor eventually would be included.

Acquit Illinoisan Of Killing Neighbor

Marion, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—A jury late Tuesday acquitted Edward G. Pulley, 55, of a murder charge in the slaying of his neighbor, John Thompson, July 15, 1936.

Pulley pleaded self-defense and testified that he believed Thompson, a former policeman, was reaching for a gun when the fatal shot was fired during an argument.

Pulley's first trial on the same charge ended when the jury failed to reach a verdict.

DEATH ENDS VACATION

Bradenton, Fla.—(AP)—Martin Willis Kahler, 70, of Argo, Ill., dropped dead 24 hours after he arrived here to spend the winter.

Just a Slip

Macon, Ga., Oct. 6—(AP)—Delegates to the convention of the Georgia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy listened appreciatively while Mrs. Walter D. Lamar eulogized Jefferson Davis last night.

The state Historian-General concluded with warm enthusiasm: "Let the world know the wisdom, the kindness, the justice of the great and only president of the Confederate States of America—Abraham Lincoln!"

Only after she had resumed her seat did a subdued gasp from her listeners make her realize her lapse.

"It was just one of those slips that may happen at moments of enthusiasm," Mrs. Lamar said smilingly.

F. D. R. PARRIES ALL QUESTIONS OF IMPORTANCE

Refuses Comment On Black, Silent On Chicago Speech

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 6—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had no comment to make regarding Associate Justice Hugo L. Black.

Talking to newsmen at his press conference, he said he had not been in touch with Black since the justice returned from a vacation in Europe.

The president was reminded of a statement he made before leaving Washington on his two weeks coast-to-coast tour that Black was out of the country and had not had an opportunity to read a series of articles contending the justice held membership in the Ku Klux Klan. Roosevelt said then there would be no further comment, until Black returns.

That statement, the president said today, strongly implied the possibility of later statement, but did not necessarily mean there would be one.

Didn't Hear Address

The president did not hear the associate justice's radio address last week.

He strongly indicated he would call a special session of Congress to convene between November 8 and 16, but said he would reserve decision until after conferences in Washington this week.

He said it was a little premature to say Supreme Court reorganization would be included in his program.

It was neither in nor out—was the way he put it.

He placed at the top of his program wages and hours, surplus crop control, government reorganization and regional planning.

Surrounded by his mother who just returned from a long vacation in Europe, his wife, and other members of his family, the president answered a barrage of questions on his trip and future objectives.

No Amplification

He refused to amplify his Chicago speech in which he suggested a "quarantine" of aggressor nations and called for "concerted" and "positive" action by peaceful nations to restore world stability.

He said he had found very little interest among the people as to methods, when asked about court reform, but a great deal of interest in objectives.

The average man, he added, wanted quicker and cheaper justice. The impression he got, he said, was that the people felt maybe the president was right or wrong but they wanted the objective he was after.

He said the question of additional district judges, included in his original defeated court program and recommended favorably by the recent conference of senior circuit court justices, would be one method he would discuss after returning to Washington Friday morning.

Asked if he found any difference in the attitude of Congress and the people with whom he talked on the court, he said it depended on what attitude the questioner meant.

LEAGUE WARNS JAPAN TO END SINO INVASION

American Aid To 9 POWs Is Considered Assured

Geneva, Oct. 6—(AP)—The League of Nations assembly today warned Japan of the possibility of international action unless she agrees to a peaceful nine-power settlement of the China conflict.

The assembly unanimously approved resolutions containing the warning. Poland and Siam abstained from voting, but their attitude did not prevent the unanimity because states which abstain in voting are considered absent under Geneva practices.

AMERICAN PARTICIPATION

Washington, Oct. 6—(AP)—High sources said today American participation in a nine-power conference to consider the Far Eastern conflict virtually was assured by President Roosevelt's statement of foreign policy yesterday.

This view was expressed following action of the League of Nations assembly in adopting a resolution condemning Japan's "invasion" of China and summoning signatories of the nine-power treaty to consider possible action to halt it.

Although official comment on the league's action was withheld for the moment, informed observers said there was good reason to believe it would be followed shortly by a concrete expression of this government's attitude.

The general expectation was that this statement not only would give formal notice of America's intention to participate in the nine-power conference, but that it might also support the League in its condemnation of Japan in a separate and independent statement.

Responsible quarters said these two moves logically are to be expected to follow President Roosevelt's call for "concerted efforts to end what he termed the prevailing 'reign of international lawlessness.'"

Chinese Resist Japs

Shanghai, Oct. 6—(AP)—The Japanese advance on all China fronts from Shanghai to the north will reportedly today have been halted by stiffened Chinese resistance.

In the Shanghai sector, the repeated Japanese thrusts against the 25-mile line running northwest from the north station were beaten back by sheer force of numbers in hand-to-hand combat.

Far to the north in the strategically more important operations in the rich provinces of Hopeh and Shantung, reliable foreign reports bore out the Chinese claim that Japan's push had been stopped.

In the eastern sector of the North China war zone, Japanese claimed their strongly mechanized "dunn" had invaded Shantung province completed the capture of the walled city of Tsinanfu, and was pressing on against Tsinanfu, the provincial capital.

Forced to Retreat

Correspondents for the Associated Press, and other foreign observers at Tsinanfu reported, however, that a vigorous Chinese counter-attack had forced the Japanese to abandon their siege of Tsinanfu and retreat to the north.

The Shantung legions of Gen. Han Fu-Chu were streaming north and foreigners resident in Tsinanfu declared they felt no anxiety.

Informed Chinese and Japanese circles in Peking reported that Japan planned to form the five north China provinces of Hopeh, Shantung, Chahar, Suiyuan and Shansi into an autonomous republic—if and when they are captured. Peking, its name restored to Peking, was said to have been selected as the capital for the new republic which would fly the former five-barred Chinese flag.

The dramatic nine-day old battle for the environs of Shanghai continued unabated just across Soochow creek from the northern boundary of the international settlement.

GUARDING A PRESIDENT

Because cranks and murderous fanatics have a way of appearing when you least expect them, the secret service has to guard American presidents with unsleeping vigilance. This hems the president in more than he usually likes, and also works a hardship on innocent people—yet it seems utterly unavoidable.

When President Roosevelt drove through Hood River, Ore., the other day someone on the sidewalk tossed a package at his automobile. Alert secret service men instantly knocked it down. When they opened it, they found that it contained flowers and a hand-embroidered handkerchief. An elderly woman said that she had thrown it; she meant it for a present for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Her charming little gesture came to a sad end, and the woman doubtless felt bad about it. Yet what is the secret service to do? There are just enough homicidal nit-wits on earth to justify them in fearing that such a package, sailing out of a mixed crowd, might contain a bomb. They were right in doing what they did. But one can't help wishing that such care was unnecessary.

STILL PRIMING THE PUMP

This one is brought to the editorial desk by the father of a son.

The boy examined a cartoon that showed a man with a pitcher of water priming a pump. While the water from the spout rose to the man's shoulders and all around him, he continued priming the pump. The child also was in water a little too deep, so he appealed to his father to explain.

Father explained the process of priming a pump, and what the process is for.

The boy looked at the cartoon again and asked: "Isn't the man silly?"

Carter Glass, chairman of the senate committee on appropriations, has estimated that the congress now adjourned appropriated 1 1/4 millions of dollars more than the preceding congress in its last session, except for the soldiers' bonus outlay. This is notwithstanding the 440 millions knocked off relief appropriations.

President Roosevelt's fourth budget, submitted last January, estimated that for the fiscal year 1937-38 the budget would be balanced, except for retirement of the public debt. Since his first inauguration, after an election campaign in which a balanced budget was pledged, the president has been indicating that the budget would be balanced "next year." The net deficit was estimated in his January budget message at about 2 1/4 billions of dollars.

But in April, 1937, revised budget figures put the 1936-7 deficit at almost 2 1/2 billions. Revenues would be at least $600,000,000 less than had been anticipated. When the treasury closed its books on June 30, the end of the fiscal year, the net deficit for 1936-7 was actually only 43 millions less than 2 1/4 billions, and the April revised budget estimated that in 1937-8, the treasury, instead of coming out even, would have a deficit of more than 400 millions.

To the president, our No. 1 spendthrift, may be checked up part of this continuation of priming of the pump, and to congress, which has notions of its own about distribution of public money, may go the rest.

The president and Harry Hopkins held relief appropriations up to 1 1/2 billions by pressure upon congressmen who wanted to cut them to 1 billion. The Wagner housing law is a pump priming measure. The government guaranty of 12-cent cotton is a presidential order, running away up in millions, is another.

Congress passed over the president's veto the bill continuing 3 1/2 percent interest on federal farm loans, the president favoring boosting the rates on the farmers.

Congress liberalized outlays for war veterans, in one case over a presidential veto.

Increase of the vocational education program from 5 to 11 millions was over presidential opposition.

A NATURAL STATE OF AFFAIRS

Statesmen of the world and idealists in general are hoping that another war in Europe can be forestalled or postponed; others say there will be no war because the nations are too poor to fight. They say this hopefully, as one whistling in the dark.

All these people seem to think that peace is the natural condition in Europe, and that war is extraordinary, whereas the reverse is true. European history does not go far back of the time of Christ, but ever since Caesar got the impression that all Gaul was divided into three parts, war has been a most ordinary thing. Sometimes they fought because they were angry, and often they fought merely because they wanted exercise. It is on record that former enemies, and enemies-to-be, joined forces and went on crusades into Palestine. French have fought against the Germans, and help the Germans, and vice-versa. British have fought with the Germans against the French, and with the French against the Germans. French have fought with Germans against Russians, and with Russians against Germans. The same French who are now so heated up about conditions in Spain once invaded Spain.

War is brought on by certain conditions that might well be called war themselves. It is no worse to die of a bayonet thrust than to perish by malnutrition. To meet one's demise as a result of a bullet is infinitely more merciful and speedy than the worry that leads to ultimate suicide. It is more cheerful to march in company with one's fellows, even when that marching is toward the battlefield, than to sit unemployed and with no hope for the future.

War is a symptom of a disease. Gentle and impractical thinkers see Europe suffering from a deadly disease, and hope sincerely that the symptom thereof will not become evident.

Part of the trouble with Europe is traditional hatred, bred in the bone, of other peoples. Part of it is due to the petty selfishness and greed of statesmen who impose trade restrictions upon other countries in order that they may brag of the economic conquests they have made.

The fact is that half of Europe is starving, literally and figuratively, because the other half knows from experience that no safe balance ever has been struck. The situation has been so that one half of the continent must be the horse and the other half must ride. Tomorrow it may be otherwise.

So long as that philosophy prevails there will be danger of war in Europe, and if conditions have become such that the war must spread, so much the worse for those affected by the epidemic. It would be more constructive if the wishers for peace were to study the situation until a way is found out of the dilemma.

200-Yr. Experiment In Cornerstone Of Biology Building

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 6—(AP)—It may take 200 years, but University of Notre Dame scientists are going to get to the bottom of a certain bacteriological problem.

Dr. James A. Reyniers, head of the Notre Dame laboratories of bacteriology, said six cultures of bacteria, sealed in glass test tubes, had been deposited in the cornerstone of the new campus biology building.

The tubes will remain there until the building is torn down, probably 150 to 200 years hence, according to the department's figures. With the cultures was sealed a typed list of instructions "to the one that opens them."

Dr. Reyniers said the experiment was made to determine how long this type of microbe can exist outside of bodies.

grinned and said nothing.

Keen interest in the third term possibility was evident everywhere. Local newsmen and politicians invariably asked Washington correspondents about it. The latter could tell them no more than they already knew—which was nothing. But the subject bobbed up incessantly.

Roosevelt was well aware of this. Members of his personal staff told him about it and reported some of the conversations they overheard. And he was just as interested in what the public said, as the public is interested in what he thinks.

Merry-Go-Round

Mrs. Betsy Roosevelt, wife of eldest son Jimmy, attracted much more attention than her towering husband. After snapping the President, photographers made a bee-line for her. . . . Seattle's labor czar Dave Beck is no shrinking violet. The pugnacious teamster boss tells friends that in a few years he will be President of the A. F. of L. . . . The maritime hiring halls on the Seattle waterfront are models of efficiency and discipline. Operated by CIO unionists, they handle thousands of workers daily with dispatch and rigid impartiality. Drunkenness and disorder are strictly taboo, with heavy fines for violations. . . . Contrary to popular belief about newsmen, the most popular drink of reporters on the President's train was milk. Dining car stewards reported that the correspondents consume more milk than a train of ordinary passengers.

Chicago, Oct. 6—(AP)—Governor Horner's Permanent Relief Commission, appointed to study the relief problem in Illinois and recommend action, will hold its initial meeting here Thursday.

The committee is composed of 14 members and was appointed by the governor yesterday. It will be known as the Illinois Council of Public Assistance and Employment. The council, which will be responsible only to the governor, was named on the recommendation of the Emergency Relief Committee of 50 civic leaders.

"I will give the commission every bit of authority the governor has and if I have not enough I will have the legislature do it," Gov. Horner said. "It will be a cabinet to advise the governor and will not be dominated by the governor."

Members of the new committee are: B. C. Heacock, Peoria, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association; Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor; Richard J. Finnegan, Chicago publisher; Otto C. Doering, chairman of the 1935 "Doering Commission" on relief; John C. Watson of the Illinois Agricultural association; C. W. Bergquist, Bertram J. FARM AND HOME ADVISERS GO TO URBANA MEET

C. E. Yale, Elizabeth Coleman of Amboy Participate

It's back to school for Illinois' 97 farm advisers and 50 home advisers who will attend the annual fall conference for co-operative extension workers at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, October 6 to 9.

Farmers in every county in the state are served by the 97 farm advisers. Homemakers in 55 counties are receiving the latest information on modern home economics practices through activities of the 50 home advisers.

Not content with having reached more than 1,250,000 farmers and homemakers at almost 25,000 schools, demonstrations and tours last year, farm and home advisers and members of the extension service in agriculture and home economics will study at the conference new methods of carrying better farming and homemaking practices to still greater numbers.

As planned by H. W. Mumford, dean of the agricultural college and director of the extension service, and J. C. Spitzer, state leader of farm advisers and assistant director of extension, the program for the four-day conference and school has for its theme, "Problems in Program Building."

Plan Annual Programs

These problems will be those which are being encountered throughout the state by county committees of leading farmers, homemakers and other citizens who are co-operating with the extension service of the agricultural college in building a co-ordinated educational program in agriculture and home economics. Through these county programs it is hoped to advance the economic and social welfare of Illinois farmers and their families. Thirty counties already have set up their programs for the coming year.

Features of the meeting will be a study of community unit problems, an outline of the extension service program for 1937-1938, a discussion of factors concerned in motivating people to participate in an extension program, by Paul J. Kruse, professor of rural education, Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., and a discussion by H. W. Hochbaum, in charge, eastern section, extension service, U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

C. E. Yale, farm adviser, and Miss Elizabeth Coleman, home adviser for Lee county, are attending the meeting at Urbana. D. E. Warren of Oregon, Ogle county farm adviser, also is present. Ogle county has no home adviser.

Pressure Cooker's Efficiency, Safety Studies of U. of I.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 6.—How safe and efficiently the steam pressure cooker works in the average home is expected to be disclosed as the result of a series of tests on cookers now underway in various counties throughout the state. Conducting the series is Miss Grace Armstrong, extension specialist in food, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. First of the meetings already has been held in DuPage county. Other test meetings to which eight or ten homemakers will be invited to bring their cookers will be held in Schuyler, Brown, Adams, Peoria, McLean and Champaign.

Cookers which have not been properly cared for or have been used over a long period of time may need readjustment of the pressure gauge which controls the temperature within the cooker, says Miss Armstrong. The test meetings will disclose whether or not all women need to test their pressure cookers and will furnish information as to the testing procedure and readjustment.

The pressure cooker, she explains, is an absolute requirement for canning all non-acid vegetables and meat. Its value lies in raising the boiling temperature far above that of the boiling point and thus insures killing of bacteria which would lead to spoilage. Improper functioning of the gauge would mean wrong temperature control.

Illinois along with other states is conducting this survey in co-operation with the Bureau of Home Economics.

DAILY HEALTH

THE 'B. O.' BATTLE

By Iago Galdston, M. D.
Bromidrosis is a first cousin to halitosis. It is that condition in which the sweat has an offensive odor. Frequently it goes with excessive sweating.

The actual cause for bromidrosis is not known for certain. Some say the offensive odor arises from the decomposition of the fatty acids of the sweat. Others blame it on a germ. Both may be right.

More certain, however, is the fact that scrupulous cleanliness (not just dirt cleanliness) will go far in overcoming this condition.

The feet are a center of common offense. Here the condition may be corrected by daily alternating the shoes worn, and airing the used ones. Socks should be changed daily, and shoes should be roomy to allow ventilation.

The feet may be washed with an antiseptic solution consisting of two drams (8 cc) of formaldehyde in eight ounces (250 cc) of water. Or they may be immersed for 5 to 10 minutes in a solution of 1 to 2,000 of potassium permanganate.

It also helps to shake an antiseptic dusting powder on the feet and inside the socks and shoes.

If a person sweats excessively and has bromidrosis, the case requires careful medical study. Excessive sweating may arise from many causes, and may point to an underlying serious, constitutional disturbance—especially so when the excessive sweating involves the entire body.

Localized excessive sweating, say of the armpits, hands or feet, may be treated effectively by local measures. Here, too, soap and water are valuable remedies.

The water used should be as hot as the individual can stand, and the washing or bathing should be prolonged for 15 to 20 minutes, once or twice daily.

Astringent solutions applied locally may prove beneficial. However, these are usually irritating and should be prescribed for the individual by his physician. Finally, X-ray is valuable in treating both bromidrosis and excessive sweating.

Tomorrow—Satisfactory Shaving.

WHITE SOX OUT TO WIN SERIES AGAINST CUBS

Victory String of Nine Games Began in 1934

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, American third place club, go back to work today on a prized winning streak—an unfinished run of nine straight victories over the National league Cubs in city series baseball strife.

The Sox, always the underdogs in recent series with the Cubs, started the current winning streak, which does not include spring training meetings, by winning the seventh and final game of the 1931 series. They whipped through the 1934 affair in four straight, and last year gave their favored rivals another four-game polishing.

Although they finished third in their own league this year while the Cubs landed second in the National league, the Sox, for the first time, go into the interleague row the favorites. Today's quotation on the Sox was 7 to 5.

Pitching Choices

A pair of right-handers, 37 year old Ted Lyons, who won 12 and lost seven for the Sox during the major league season, and Tex Carleton, whose record for the Cubs was 16 victories and eight defeats, were the pitching choices for the opening game. Both hurlers faced their tasks without full strength behind them. Bill Jurgens, the Cubs' ace shortstop, was sent home last week to rest an injured shoulder, leaving his position to Linus Frey. Zeke Bonura, the Sox' big first baseman, was due to start, but was not in the best of shape because of a groin injury.

The first two games of the series were up for decision at Comiskey park, home of the defending city champions. The next three will be played at Wrigley field, with the athletes returning to Comiskey park if the series goes the limit of seven games.

The men were charged with hunting during open season on baited grounds of the Crane Lake Gun Club, of which they were members.

Retired from Service

Thursday noon, LaPorte Meredith retired from the service as rural carrier, having completed his twenty-five years of service. In a conversation with him we glean a few interesting facts. He has traveled 210,000 miles and never had what might be called a bad accident. He received his appointment June 16, 1912, when J. H. Lincoln was postmaster and William Brown Jr. was his assistant. There were three routes out of the postoffice; Nathan Whitney and Perry Ramsdell were the carriers.

We pause to call attention to perhaps the older readers, that when Mr. Ramsdell started as mail carrier his wagon was drawn by four little Shetland ponies. From the ponies and horse and buggy days we have the fast, very fast auto. In those days the postoffice was in the Lincoln building where the Reporter office now is. Mr. Meredith of course has seen many changes in the twenty-five years of service. Not only in the postoffice which is now very modern and most complete in every way, but the many changes that have taken place on his route during those twenty-five years. Mr. Meredith drove a horse for years, taking the entire day to make the trip. In 1917 he purchased a car and since then has used an auto, making the trip in less than a half day and affording his patrons prompt service. Mr. Meredith has always been an extremely conscientious man, not only with his mail work but in every other way, very honorable in his dealings with everyone. We believe if Uncle Sam knew what the patrons and his many friends know that he would feel like writing on his discharge papers, "Well done good and faithful servant."

Thursday evening those who have been associated with him in the employ of the post office during the past twenty-five years gave him a farewell dinner in his honor at White Rock. Those who attended were Postmaster George Fruit and his assistants, Lowell Trottnow and R. C. Gross; Ex-Postmaster George L. Spangler and his assistant, Wayne Bates, Mail Carriers Arthur Watson, Walter Heckman, Harry Maronde; Frank Senger, a former employee, of this place, and Postmaster J. A. Roesler of Ashton.

Up to date no definite arrangements have been made about this route No. 2. At present Lowell Trottnow has the route and R. C. Gross is taking Lowell's place in the post office.

From Dust Bowl Desert to Bumper Crop

Barren of all vegetation, its fences buried in dust, this farm of A. C. Witt, near Stratford, Tex., was typical of the desolate dust bowl areas in 1936. Six crop failures in succession had rewarded the owner's labors, leaving him arid, sand-swept acres like these.

The same farm, the same field, the same house, just a year later, are shown in this picture. Farmer Witt terraced his land to conserve moisture and stop soil-blowing. His work produced this field of unbelievably verdant grain sorghum—and this fall he can plant wheat.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Katin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

FARMERS TO BE PAID IN SINGLE CHECK BY U. S.

In Former Years Two Payments Were Made in Soil Program

Payments to Lee county farmers for cooperating in the 1937 agricultural conservation program will be made in one check rather than two as in past programs, according to Farm Adviser Yale. This procedure will be welcomed by farmers and will greatly facilitate activities in the county and state offices, Adviser Yale explained. However, it is imperative that cooperating farmers do their part in making payments available as soon as possible.

It will be necessary for summaries of performances on at least 50 per cent of the cooperating farms in Lee county to be forwarded to the state office before any payments can be made.

After the state office has received at least 50 per cent of the completed summaries, administrative expenses for the entire county can be estimated and applications prepared and returned to the county for signatures of producers. The applications which producers sign will designate the amount they have earned by cooperating in the program. This amount will be over and above each producer's pro-rata share of administrative expenses for the county.

Since only one payment will be made this year, it is important that Lee county farmers make certain that their farm reports contain accurate information and that the information is complete. To make certain that this information is accurate, farmers should cooperate with farm reporters who are preparing to make the final inspections. They should thoroughly check the farm report before it is submitted to the county office. This report is the basis for information used by the state office in preparing applications.

Farm reporters will start October 15 making the second inspection of Lee county farms.

In past years a first payment has been made in the fall and a second payment later in the year as soon as administrative expenses could be determined and pro-rated among cooperators. Experience gained in past programs makes it possible to estimate administrative expenses as soon as at least 50 per cent of the summaries of performance have been received.

DOES FINE MECHANICAL ABILITY INDICATE HIGH INTELLIGENCE? YES OR NO — 2

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Marriage, of course, solves many problems but not all of life's problems by a long shot; and it adds not only one problem but a whole flock of problems. However, the chief thing a successful marriage does is to give a man and woman an opportunity which nothing else can give to solve by mutual counsel, understanding, sympathy and service any and all of the problems that life always brings. There is no problem in life that cannot be better and more wisely solved by two people who are happily married than it can be possibly solved by a single person.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. Bright people are little, if any better at mechanics than people of average or even below average general intelligence. The aptitudes that enable one to do well in lan-

3. It is about the only way to overcome a fault or defect. Morgan and Webb, psychologists, say of President Theodore Roosevelt—paraphrased: He had a weak body, unpossessing appearance and a frightful disposition; but he noticed strong boys played active games; so he rode, swam, and worked with a vengeance and became a model of endurance. He noticed other boys met fearful situations in the spirit of adventure and he followed this plan. In other words he overcame his physical weakness by acting as though he were strong and his fear by acting as though he were not afraid. A splendid example!

PLEA FOR WORLD PEACE MADE AT R. R. CONFERENCE

Philadelphia Bishop is Speaker at Gathering in Rockford

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—A plea for world peace and the ending of "godlessness sweeping the world," was sounded last night by Bishop Ernest G. Richardson of Philadelphia in an address which opened the Rock River Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"Over and over again we have seen nations arming that they may have peace—and every time they have put their dependence for peace in armaments, we have seen this dependence fall utterly."

The church, he said, is the only human agency able to halt "the strife now threatening to engulf the world."

Bishop Richardson delivered the keynote address in place of Bishop E. L. Waldorf, resident bishop of the Chicago area, who was unable to attend the conference because of illness.

Bishop Richardson told ministers and lay delegates that Russia was the greatest menace ever to threaten the church. "For 20 years," he said, "the Russians have been taught godlessness."

Citing the recent lynching of a Florida Negro, Bishop Richardson urged Methodist ministers to combat race prejudice.

"People All Brothers"

"When the people realize they are all brothers, this economic injustice and race prejudice confronting them will disappear. Christianity is the key, the sole key, to the solution of our problems."

The Rev. Dr. Raymond L. Semans, superintendent of the Rockford district, presided at the opening session of the conference.

Harry L. Wells, vice president of Northwestern University, and Dr. Dan B. Brummitt of Kansas City, editor of the Christian Advocate, were among today's speakers.

Four ministers filed requests for retirement with the conference. They were the Rev. Frank W. Barnum of Lake Bluffs, former superintendent of the Chicago district who has been on a leave of absence for the last year; the Rev. Willis A. Way of Lombard, the Rev. Martin J. Major, of the Trinity church, Chicago, and the Rev. Christian F. Kleinbauer, of the Norwood Park church, Chicago.

Seek Appointments
Sixty-seven student and supply pastors filed applications for appointment to churches during the ensuing year.

The Rev. Frank Palm of Chicago was expected to succeed the Rev. S. M. Swaney, Libertyville, who will not seek re-election as conference statistician after 16 years in the department.

The Rev. James O'May, Chicago, and the Rev. Chester O. Loughlin of Arlington Heights were expected to be re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Delegates speculated over the reappointment of Dr. R. Scott Hyde as superintendent of the Chicago Western district to another two year term. He completes six years of service this week.

"The Congress directed me to take this census. It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in this land that the census be complete, honest and accurate. If you give me the facts I shall try to use them for the benefit of all who need and want work and do not now have it."

MURDER RESULT OF DRINKING IN ALEDO TAVERN

Man Couldn't Evict Uninvited Guest From Home

Aledo, Ill., Oct. 6—(AP)—Joe Willits, 38, of Joy, is dead and Riley Miller, 50, is in Mercer county jail here as a result of a shooting in the Miller home in Millersville Monday night.

Miller surrendered to Sheriff Walter Rehn, claiming he shot in self defense after Willits refused to leave his home when ordered to do so, and advanced toward him in a threatening manner.

Miller, a World War veteran, told officers he met Willits, an automobile salesman, in an Aledo tavern Monday evening when he stopped there with his wife and step-daughter. He said they parted a short time later and that the Millers went to their home in Millersville.

Uninvited Guest
Shortly after their arrival, Miller said Willits appeared without an invitation but was asked into the house. After a few drinks, Miller said, Willits gave no indication of leaving, and that when Miller suggested that he go, an argument ensued. Miller seized a revolver with which to frighten Willits away, and when the latter advanced toward him, he said, he fired one shot which struck Willits in the forehead and lodged in his brain.

Miller then called the sheriff, declaring "I shot a man." In the presence of State's Attorney Stanton Prentiss and officers, Miller related the circumstances of the shooting. Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller told officers they had never seen Willits before and that the shooting was in self defense.

Willits was taken to the hospital and died there.

Czechs' Tears Are Tribute to Father of Their Country

"First in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen" is truly applicable to Czechoslovakia's "George Washington," the late beloved President Thomas Masaryk, whose funeral in Prague caused unprecendented public mourning. Typical of the weeping throngs are the women at left, who dab at their tears with handkerchiefs as the flag-draped casket, right, moves slowly through the streets. It was Masaryk who founded the Czech republic and nursed it through the trying post-war years.

REGISTRATION OF PISTOLS IS CUMMINGS GOAL

Pistol Manufacturers Opposing Move, But Fight Is On

Baltimore, Oct. 6—(AP)—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings declared "a finish fight" for registration of all firearms "despite the pistol manufacturers who have so far blocked every honest attempt" to deal with the traffic.

"Any practical measure for the control of firearms must at least contain provisions for the registration of all firearms," Cummings told the International Association of Police Chiefs in convention here.

"I submitted such a bill to the present congress. So far I have not been able to secure an open hearing upon the measure. But I propose to fight this thing through to a finish despite the pistol manufacturers who have so far blocked every honest attempt to deal with this subject."

Cummings cited the sale to an unidentified purchaser of 30 pistols, some of which later were found "on the scene of gang killings at Oak Park, Ill., Newark, N. J., and Philadelphia," as "a startling testimonial to America's inertia in dealing with the traffic in firearms," and "typical of the ease with which weapons find their way to the underworld."

Superintendent T. P. Sullivan, of the Illinois bureau of criminal identification, told the officers that if police tell a suspect his crime is no worse than others he has committed, they will have a better chance of getting a confession.

Prior to his connection with Commonwealth, Smith served as vice president of the National City Company, and vice president and treasurer of the Illinois Power and Light Company.

Smith's resignation was announced by the board of directors yesterday after Purcell L. Smith, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago, had been elected a director and chairman of the board. There was no indication the office of president would be retained in the executive setup.

The changes become effective December 1.

SOFT COAL SMOKE MOST INJURIOUS TO HUMAN LUNGS

Experiments Made On Three Types of Coal In Test

New York, Oct. 6—(AP)—The soft coal smoke of cities is a weight reducer, an ally of pneumonia and bronchitis and a cause of fibrosis in the lungs.

This medical report, one of the first in a campaign started recently by physicians to learn the health effects of smoke, was published in the American journal of public health in connection with the sixty-sixth annual meeting of the American public health association.

The medical smoke test, for the first time, separated the effects of the three common fuels, bituminous, anthracite and coke. Little harm was found in anthracite and coke.

The study was made on rats, mice and rabbits by Lucy Schurmer, M. D., of the William H. Singer Memorial laboratory of the Allegheny General hospital and Mellon Institute, Pittsburgh. The animals lived in chambers containing smoke in the same proportions breathed by humans, but the concentration was higher and more constant.

The largest numbers of uncomplicated pneumonias and of cases of bronchitis appeared in the animals in soft coal smoke.

"Not even the faintest suggestion of fibrosis of the lungs," the report states, "was seen in the control animals of those exposed to anthracite or coke. In the lungs of animals exposed to bituminous coal apparently the earliest stage of fibrosis was noted."

TROJAN GAME CRUCIAL FOR OHIO STATE

Downtown Coaches
Holding Breath Until Outcome

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The famous High street coaches of Columbus, O., are still holding their collective breath and tongue, but it's going to be hard to restrain them if Ohio State's Buckeyes get by Southern California Saturday in their ballyhooed campaign for national gridiron honors.

The "High street coaches"—known in other football-daffy centers as downtown coaches and Sunday morning mentors—used to do a large share of their cheering over Buckeye football in advance. Particularly did they cry up the "Scarlet Scourge" eleven of 1935 and 1936, only to see their favorites thwarted in their quest for mythical laurels. Notre Dame did it in that mad last period in 1935. Last year, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, and Notre Dame again, squeezed most of the color out of the "Scarlet Scourge."

Silence Deafening
This year the pre-season silence at Columbus was almost deafening. The Buckeyes were just another team that probably would win more games than it lost. Even after Ohio State whipped Texas Christian the cheering was restrained. Ohio State, with a bigger team, had just caught a lighter, forward-passing team in the rain. Last week the Bucks conquered a fine Purdue eleven without causing any hysterics on High street.

If Ohio State whips the Trojans at Los Angeles this week, however, the chorus may give tongue. It will be Ohio's last non-conference game, and a victory would rate it no worse than an even chance of getting through the season without a defeat. Northwestern, a week later, would appear to be the last big threat, unless Chicago, Indiana, Illinois or Michigan, should produce an upset.

The Buckeyes took their last home workout yesterday, looking at Trojan plays and polishing their passing game. They were due to leave Columbus this morning, making a stop in Chicago to drill at Stagg field in the afternoon.

Bernie Bierman made numerous alterations in his Minnesota lineup, leaving on the first eleven only five men who started in the Nebraska defeat, as preparations went ahead for Indiana. The Hoosiers worked on an offense especially designed for use Saturday. Illinois was given another secret practice session on the surprise Bob Zuppke is preparing for Notre Dame, while the Irish concentrated on forward pass defense.

Wildcats Meet Michigan
Northwestern, which opens defense of its conference title against Michigan, was hustled through a long drill on fundamentals. Coach Lynn Waldorf having found plenty to criticize in the Wildcats' blocking and tackling against Iowa State last week. The Wolverines also concentrated on fundamentals. Wisconsin and Chicago, which clash at Chicago, engaged in offensive scrimmages.

At Purdue, Mal Elward searched for end replacements, his regulars, Don Powell and Jim Zachary, having suffered injuries in the Ohio State battle which may keep them out of Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech and the Northwestern contest a week later. Coach Irl Tubbs continued to experiment with Iowa's lineup, and indicated he would try a variety of combinations against Bradley Tech this week.

The winter of 1929 was the most severe in 103 years in Poland. Sixty per cent of the fruit trees and nursery stock of that country perished in the record cold.

ROCK FALLS ON SPOT; MUST BEAT MORRISON FOE

1936 Rock River Valley
Champs Facing Decisive Game

Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown!
Rock Falls, defending champion of the Rock River Valley conference finds itself squarely on the spot Saturday afternoon, when it confronts Morrison's rampaging team in a Homecoming battle that will break or make Rock Falls' chances of retaining the crown.

Morrison means business. Exultant over its first victory over conference competition in ten years last Friday night when it flattened the hapless Mt. Morris Mounders 21 to 0, and possessing a fleet, hard-charging team, Morrison for the first time is confident of whirling like a cyclone through all conference competition to its first championship.

Oregon Dark Horse
By eliminating Rock Falls from the undefeated class in the loop, Morrison can narrow down the field to two first place holders provided Oregon doesn't lose to the vengeful Mounders Friday night, at Mt. Morris. Oregon has a big and fast team this fall and is favored to keep its hold on first place for the time being. In addition Oregon gained confidence by wiping out the jinx of Amboy's invincibility over Oregon in football last week.

Polo will try to make it 500 percentage in the standings by beating Amboy Saturday, but Amboy is playing on its home field and before a Homecoming crowd that day, so Polo will have a difficult job to turn the trick.

HOTEL IN PITTSBURGH

TO RUN PRESS DRIVE
Gerald P. O'Neill, general manager of the Hotel William Penn, Pittsburgh, announced this week that an extensive advertising campaign will be launched on October 1st. Mr. O'Neill added that "with our $1,000,000 rehabilitation program here at the Hotel William Penn in its last stages of completion, we have decided on this advertising program in order to acquaint the traveling public with what we believe is one of America's finest hotels."

An extensive newspaper schedule will run in the key cities.

LAYDEN FEARING POSSIBILITY OF UPSET SATURDAY

Warns Zuppke Points Illinois Team To Vanquish Irish

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A perfect "upset setup" had Elmer Layden admittedly worried today.

His Notre Dame Irish will go against Illinois at Champaign Saturday. On paper, the Irish are better than Bob Zuppke's eleven. Notre Dame having whipped Drake handsily last Saturday as the Illini were being held to a scoreless deadlock by DePaul.

That's why Layden, putting his squad through a long drill on fundamentals yesterday, also tossed in a warning for good measure. He told his players that Zuppke has been "pointing" for Notre Dame since training started weeks ago; he told them he wasn't satisfied with the blocking and tackling against Drake; and he intimated that with games ahead against Carnegie Tech, Navy, Minnesota and a few others, a letdown Saturday might prove as disastrous for the Irish as the Nebraska game did for Minnesota.

Zuppke swung his squad into a week of secret drill, and its certain the Illini will "shoot the works."

Await Carnegie Tech

Purdue, awaiting Carnegie Tech's invasion, suffered a blow when it was learned that Jim Zachary, flashy pass receiver, had pulled a tendon in his left ankle and will be out of action about three weeks. Indiana, preparing for their journey to battle Minnesota, worked on pass defense.

Francis Schmidt, giving his Ohio State Buckeyes little chance to congratulate themselves on having whipped Purdue, put his players through a long drill featured by passing. The Buckeyes, 37 strong, will leave Wednesday for Saturday's tilt with Southern California.

Although Michigan lost to Michigan State Saturday for a fourth straight year, Wolverine morale was far from low as Harry Kipke sent his squad through a long workout. The Wolves, who meet Northwestern Saturday at Evanston, are not conceding a thing to the champion Wildcats. Northwestern drilled on pass defense.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy ordered daily scrimmage for his Chicago Maroons, who will have trouble here Saturday with Wisconsin's likely-looking Badgers. Harry Stuhldreher, naming Center Nell Pohl as captain for the game with Chicago, gave his squad only a light workout. Minnesota's first stringers were excused after a short limbering session and a look at motion pictures of the Nebraska battle.

Coach Irl Tubbs drilled Iowa in preparation for Saturday's game at Iowa City with Bradley of Peoria, Ill.

Canadian, Alaskan Come 4,000 Miles To World Series

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—An Alaskan and a Canadian claim the long distance traveling record for World Series spectators unless Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, cares to dispute their claims.

Lawrence Kuble, theater manager of Ketchikan and Juneau, is the Alaskan and his traveling companion is Stan Moran, cafe owner of Prince Rupert, British Columbia. They started for the series from Prince Rupert Sept. 16, coming about 4,000 miles to see the baseball classic. Both manage baseball teams and occasionally they visit Seattle to see Pacific Coast league teams in action. Moran has picked the Yanks to win, while Kuble backs the Giants.

Cochrane, who has been recuperating in Europe from a head injury suffered in a ball game last May, returned on the Queen Mary yesterday.

The Arctic and Antarctic oceans, which are cold and not very salty, are vivid green in color.

Total Eclipse of Former Attendance Records of World Series Expected

Other Marks Slated For Oblivion In Famous Classic

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Generally, World Series records, like the last button holding the suspenders, are likely to go any time, or may hold indefinitely.

In pre-series calculations, there's no way of figuring out just which marks are in for eclipse. The answers are always wrong. For instance, no one foresaw the bombardment with which the Yanks last year wiped out whole pages of series batting and run-making records that had stood for ten years or more.

This year, the marks most likely to be outdone by the Yankees and Giants are the "highs" for attendance and gate receipts which they set a year ago. With a sellout at the stadium for either game, or a full house at both local parks for the series, the marks are sure to go.

A few of the records at which the boys will be shooting in the current classic:

Batting average—Total series, Gehrig, .385 (five series); one series, Babe Ruth, .625.

Runs scored—One series, 9, Babe Ruth (1928) and Gehrig (1932); club, 43, Yankees, 1936; one game, 4, Ruth, Earl Combs and Frank Crosetti, all Yankees.

Runs batted in—One series, 9, Gehrig, (1928); one game, 5, Lazzeri, Bill Dickey, Earl Smith; by a club, one series, 41, and one game, 18, both by Yankees, 1936.

Hits—One series, 12, by Rice, Senators, 1925, and Pepper Martin, Cardinals, 1931.

Doubles—One series, 6, Fox, Tigers, 1934; one game, 4, Isbell, White Sox, 1906.

Home runs—One series, 4, Ruth (1926), and Gehrig (1928); one game, 3, Ruth, 1926 and '28. Largest score—One game, Yanks 18, Giants 4, 1936.

Attendance—Series, 328,051, Yanks-Cardinals, 1926; one game, 66,669, Yanks-Giants, 1936.

Receipts—Series, $1,304,399, Yanks-Giants, 1936; one game, $240,591, Yanks-Giants, 1936.

OTHER RECORDS

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—World Series records of the Giants and Yankees:

GIANTS

1912—McGraw; lost to Boston, 3-4 (one tie).

1913—McGraw; lost to Philadelphia, 1-4.

1917—McGraw; lost to Chicago, 2-4.

1921—McGraw; beat Yankees, 5-3.

1922—McGraw; beat Yankees, 4-0 (one tie).

1923—McGraw; lost to Yankees, 2-4.

1924—McGraw; lost to Washington, 3-4.

1933—Bill Terry; beat Washington, 4-1.

1936—Terry; lost to Yankees, 2-4.

(New York also won National league championship in 1888, 1889 and 1904 when there was no World Series).

YANKS

LIGHTED FIELD FOR MARQUETTE COYOTE CONTEST

First Floodlight Football
In Two Years,
Hilltop

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 6.—(Special)

—Floodlight football, the first in the home stadium in two years, will mark the 1937 campaign of

Marquette university golden avanlanche, Friday night, when the University of South Dakota eleven will provide the opposition here.

The kickoff is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock. It will be the last Milwaukee start for Coach Paddy Driscoll's men until their homecoming argument with Iowa State, Nov. 13. In the meantime, they will meet Kansas State at Manhattan, Michigan

State at East Lansing, Santa Clara

at Soldier Field (Chicago) and Villanova at Philadelphia.

Driscoll has worked overtime with his Marquette squad this week in an effort to iron out an offense that failed to click in last Saturday's game with Wisconsin. His principal problem has been one of personnel. Injuries have prevented him from having his potential first string lineup on the practice field intact.

By his great defensive work against Wisconsin, Rush Niles, a

175-pound sophomore from Shawano, Wis., apparently has sewed up the fullback position on the Marquette varsity. He probably will be surrounded in the backfield by Capt. Ray Sonnenberg, blocking right halfback, and two other sophomores—Harry Leysenaar, quarterback, and Reggie Coldagelli, left half.

Burke Impressive End

Most impressive of the golden avalanche's sophomore linemen against the Badgers was Billie

Burke, left end, who prepped under

Coach Driscoll at St. Mel's high school, Chicago. He probably will step in for the injured veteran,

Herb Anderson.

Though sideliners probably did not appreciate the fact, Marquette was

OUT OF THE NIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PRISCILLA PIERCE—heroine, young woman attorney.
AMY KERR—Cilly's roommate and murderer's victim.
JIM KERRIGAN—Cilly's fiancé.
HARRY HUTCHINS—Amy's strange visitor.
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday, Cilly decided to do a bit of "outing" from the St. Ann Apartments. On her way to the roof she meets the Corbets and decides she doesn't want to stop long in their apartment.

CHAPTER XVIII
"C'mon, baby! One more M! drink with papa!"

Tom Corbett swayed as he hung over Cilly. Would he never let her go? She'd been there half an hour, and one by one the lights across the street were going out. If she stayed much longer, there would be nothing to see from the roof.

Across the room, Mrs. Corbett was beginning to nod in her chair. Her words, as she babbled on, were thick, and every few minutes they trailed off to a vague nothingness.

"No, no more, really!" Cilly insisted. She still sipped the first drink he had made for her.

She stood up abruptly. She'd made a mistake coming here, all right, but she didn't have to stay. One didn't compromise with drunks. Quickly she walked to the door.

Quickly, but not quite fast enough. Sensing her action, Corbett was there first, arms outstretched, blocking the way.

"So! You wanna run out on me, eh?" He enfolded her in his enormous arms. "Oh, no you don't." Cilly struggled to free herself. "Mr. Corbett!" she shouted.

Back in the living room, his wife opened half an eye. "Wazzat, deary?" she inquired sleepily. "Whajus say?"

Mr. Corbett let Cilly go. "Scuse me," he pleaded. "Scuse me. But don't try to go yet. It's early! Lemme fix that drink."

Cilly went back to the living room. Here was a nice predicament, she thought. Whatever possessed her to ring the Corbets' doorbell? She might have waited downstairs until someone from the apartment came along, and then explain that she'd forgotten her key.

She sat down beside Mrs. Corbett. The woman was not going to sleep, not if she could help it. "Mrs. Corbett," she said, "I wanted to ask you something about Sunday night..."

"Sunday night? Oh, my Gawd!" She straightened, shuddered. "Don't remind me. Sunday night. Tom was out west. Tom's always out west. Travelin' man, that's my Tom." She giggled foolishly now. "Travelin' man. Tom, tell her 'bout that time... that time out west... tell her, Tom... that time you—"

"Shut up! Keep your mouth still!" Tom, standing in the kitchen doorway, looked menacingly at his wife.

Mrs. Corbett waved her arms in a pathetically dramatic fashion of submission.

"O. K.," she grinned fatuously, but with condescension, "if you won't tell her, I will. I'll tell about that time you were out west... where was it, darlin'? Where were you that time..."

In three quick strides her husband was at her side. "Shut up, I told you!" he shouted. "Shut up! You talk too much. Why don'tcha go to bed? Go to bed!"

"No! I'm gonna tell..." Cilly jumped to her feet. In another second, she could see, Corbett might strike his wife. She wanted to escape and now. "Mr. Corbett," she said with determination, "I'm going home, and if you try to stop me, I'm going to scream until every policeman in Brooklyn gets here. And there have been altogether too many policemen around here lately."

The man's mouth dropped in sulky displeasure. He slumped into a chair, waved his drink in the air.

"Gwan home," he said gruffly. "Who asked you over anyway? Gwan home. Who cares?"

Cilly breathed a deep sigh of relief as she closed the Corbett door behind her. What people! And what a curious contradiction Mrs. Corbett was—a mild, nervous little woman one day; coarsely drunk the next.

She wondered what the story was that the woman had tried to tell her—the story of Mr. Corbett's experience out west—"way, way out west." And why was he so intensely set on not having it told?

She unlatched the door to the roof and stepped out. Slowly she closed it behind her, careful lest it slam. She took a deep breath, before she stepped forward toward the edge.

Suddenly, as she stood beside the three-foot wall enclosing the roof, she wondered just what she expected to discover. Now that she was here, the whole trip seemed utterly folly.

Nevertheless, she brought forth the opera glasses and adjusted them to her vision. First, she focused them upon the empty apartment 5-B. This was where she really hoped to find something. A flash of light, perhaps, or the flicker of a candle... anything to indicate that someone might be using the apartment as a hideout. But there was nothing. The windows of both empty apartments—5-B and 3-B—loomed black and vacant.

Down she looked into the living room of 2-B. Mr. and Mrs. Smith sat at opposite ends of the divan, Mrs. Smith reading a magazine, Mrs. Smith knitting. Next door, Mrs. Elliott's apartment was dark. The light from a street lamp showed nothing unusual here. Mrs. Elliott was still in Connecticut, visiting her daughter.

Above, in 3-A, there were no lights. That was the Caruthers' apartment; they were in Bermuda.

In 4-A, Cilly saw the Downses, a mother and daughter, getting ready for bed. Trusting souls, they

WOMEN EXPECTED TO TRAP BRADY'S GANG FOR G-MEN

Gunmen Rate as Tops for Federal Agents on Their Trail

By James Doss
Indianapolis—(AP)—From Indiana, home of John Dillinger, has sprung a gang that G-men label the most vicious now operating.

It is that of Al Brady and his two undersized pals who have boasted frequently, according to underworld gossip, that they would "out-Dillinger" Dillinger. They've gone a long way towards making good.

Police charge them specifically with three killings, several bank robberies and holdups. There is a federal reward of $500 out for each.

Like Dillinger, they broke jail after one whirl at outlaws.

Like Dillinger and his henchmen, they started then on a series of bank robberies.

Youngest Is A Braggart

Like the Dillinger gang, they have the G-men on their trail. Director J. Edgar Hoover has set after them a picked squad of federal agents, as usual in such cases. His men have a code word for the gang—"the braggart squad."

Most important of all, possibly, the gang has its known weakness. Like Dillinger, its members are overly fond of women.

The "braggart squad" are just two former farm boys and a big city youth who went wrong.

All three—Alfred Brady, James Dalhove and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., are small. Police call them "half pint killers." All are the products of broken homes, and are 21 to 31 years old. Both Brady and Dalhove are morose, while Shaffer is boastful and talkative, like Dillinger. To him is credited a crack about "making Dillinger a piker."

What They're Like
Here are details from the Federal Bureau of Identification and the police:

Alfred Brady, credited with being the gang organizer, is an Indiana farm boy, described by one of his first sweethearts as "too sweet to hurt anyone." Pinched-faced and hard-muscled from his years on the farm and at a mechanic's bench, he was born near Kentland, Ind., in 1910 and attended elementary school at North Salem. When he was a child, his father died and Brady moved with his mother to Indianapolis. She remarried, but died in 1926. An errand boy, then a clothing store worker, he was first arrested on a vagrancy charge, in 1934. Later, for possession of stolen property, he did a stretch in an Indiana prison farm, then worked as a farm hand near Hanover, Ind. There he probably met Dalhove, who farmed nearby. By 1935, Brady was in Indianapolis once more, working in factories. The next year the Brady gang raids began.

James Dalhove, crack rifle shot, also is a farm boy—raw-boned and scrawny. Four years older than Brady, he was the son of parents later divorced. He attended school at Madison, Ind., married a Cincinnati girl, and has two boys, 9 and 7 years old. A roving laborer as a youth, he returned to Indiana and bought a farm near Hanover, mixing farm work with bootlegging. His first prison sentence, at Santa Fe, N. M., was for auto theft. Others followed in Kentucky and Indiana for assault to kill and possession of a still.

Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., "loud mouth" of the trio, operated a sandwich shop before joining up. Born here in 1916, he was reared by grandparents after his parents separated. He attended elementary school here and at Ben Davis, Ind., and apparently lived a normal life. But while doing odd jobs, he worked for a time with a character known to the G-men as Charles Geiseking, onetime member of the Brady gang who is now serving time in Ohio.

From Stores to Banks

The first job attributed to the gang was a $320 store robbery at Robinson, Ill., in January, 1936. Brady was identified as one of the two holdup men. Other holdups followed.

And then in April, 1936, the gang grabbed a haul of jewelry at Lima, O., and escaped after a running fight. Geiseking was wounded and his pals brought him here for medical aid. A police patrol cornered them at a surgeon's office and the gang again shot their way out, killing Police Sergeant Richard Rivers. The transport of $12,000 in jewels across a state line is the basis for the federal charges against the gang.

A few days later, Brady and Dalhove were captured at Chicago, and Shaffer here. Transferred to jail in Greenfield, Ind., they slugged the sheriff with an iron bar, fled to Baltimore and established a base, police believe, for forays back into Ohio and Indiana.

This was a turning point in the career of the gang. No longer did they bother with stores—only banks.

They Kill An Officer
Holdups laid at their door, definitely and tentatively, include bank robberies at Garthage, Farmland, North Madison, Anderson and Goodland in Indiana, and at Lancaster, Weston and Greenville in Ohio.

Besides these crimes, there were the killings of Rivers, of Grocery Clerk Edward Linsey in a $150 robbery at Piqua, O., and of State Policeman Paul Minneman in a gun battle near Logansport, Ind. That battle was a high spot. The Bradys fleeing from the $2,600 bank robbery at Goodland, roared down a country road, raising dust so thick that the officers in the car behind could see only a few feet.

At a crossroads the Bradys laid an ambush as deadly as ever an Indian contrived. They pulled off the road and behind a little white church. As the officers paused at the crossroad to sight their quarry, one of the gang cut loose from one corner of the church, another from a second corner and a third from the gang car. One officer was badly wounded. As the other, Minneman, lay dying in the dust, a gangster is said to have snarled: "I ought to finish you right now."

Woman May Doom Them
After the bank robberies, the gang lay low awhile, but were flushed by police last August in Baltimore.

Brady and Dalhove had married meantime and Brady had set up a tavern there. As "Eddie Maxwell," he contributed to the community's social life by appearing boldly in advertised exhibitions of fancy skating at a large Baltimore rink. In the gang hideout, police found an extensive arsenal and gun-making tools.

But the gunmen escaped, as usual, under fire.

What chance is there of catching them?

Officers predict the capture will be made through a tip from some crack sweetheart.

Shaffer Expresses the Chair

For the Chicago capture, Shaffer blames a pretty young New Orleans woman who has admitted leaving her husband and child for gangland thrills.

"If Brady had left women alone," Shaffer told reporters at that time, "we wouldn't be here now. She told us to park the car and leave the junk in it, wanting us to stay in a hotel all night instead of leaving town."

Shaffer summed up the mob's philosophy in these words: "Do I know what's coming to me? Sure, the electric chair with bells. What's the difference? I had a good time while it lasted."
